

The Mandeville School's English Department

The Mandeville School's English Home Learning aim is for all learners to continue to develop and make progress, regardless of any disruption.

Your continued dedication will help to advance our learning journeys. We recognise and value the responsibility and resilience our school community has demonstrated. More support is at our website: www.mandevillelearning.com

A healthy home learning regimen for English students should have elements of self-direction. Through reflection, students might focus on areas which they feel are most helpful or to develop others further.

Additional resources are on Showmyhomework and Doddle. Some will support students who could benefit from a reader, translator or more structure - create a free account at CommonLit (code 43LJNL). I will tweet significant updates through @readysetrevis

In accordance with our Department's ethos: 'a reader today, a leader tomorrow', we have provided our list of recommended books and links to online content. Teachers' contact details are provided; we also welcome student work at home@mandevillelearning.com

Curriculum

Curriculum

We wish to see you engaging with texts, improving your confidence as you do so. This strand will help you to more deeply understand increasingly challenging texts.

Community

Community

Distancing does not need to mean isolation. Digitally, we can still interact with one another. Young Writers competitions, shared writing and more are planned.

Challenge

Challenge

Challenging circumstances allow us to be ambitious, to take risks, and to realise our true potential. There will be many opportunities to test your abilities and to push yourselves to achieve more.

Creativity

Creativity

Imagine other worlds, places and times; show off your individuality! Learning English can help you to transform your surroundings and mindset.

Celebration

Celebration

Your teachers want to see you at your best. Insightful, creative, ambitious and hard work should be shared for all to admire. Submit your own and check out what your peers have been up to.

A very sincere thank you for your perseverance,
The Mandeville School's English Team
